

Nursery Apprentice Positions at our Kemps Creek Nursery

Andreasens Green are Australia's leading landscape horticulture business, and we continue to grow! We're the market leaders in providing a 'one stop solution' for our clients. We are a dynamic and evolving privately owned business that is looking for great people to join us in enriching our customer's journey from start to finish.

We are seeking to appoint a number of nursery apprentices at our Kemps Creek site in western Sydney. Mature age applications are welcome, if you have life experience and have decided you want to turn a passion for Horticulture into a career then we would like to talk to you.

As a Wholesale Nursery Apprentice we will train and develop you to gain hands on skill and knowledge in all aspects of the following:

- Plant Propagation
- Nursery production
- Plant care and maintenance
- Pest and Disease management
- Sales
- High levels of plant identification

You will also be required to attend TAFE one day per week to study Certificate three in Horticulture (production nursery).

The successful candidates will need to demonstrate the following; -

- A passion for plants, nature and the outdoors
- A high level of self-motivation
- Good attention to detail and care
- Enjoy a physical work environment
- Must have own transport

If you feel that you meet these requirements and would excel in this environment, please email your resume, your preferred site you would like to apply for, and cover letter to – Daniel Ewings, daniele@andreasensgreen.com.au
